A short biography: Friedensreich Hundertwasser

On December 15, 1928 one of Austria's most eccentric artists was born – his name was Friedrich Stowasser. Later in his life he changed his name into Friedensreich Hundertwasser. After his school leaving examination he spent 3 months at the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna. At the age of 21 he started travelling across Europe and visited North Italy, Tuscany, Rome, Naples and Sicily. In Florence he met René Brô and followed him to Paris. On these trips he collected a lot of ideas and created his own philosophy: A life in harmony with nature.

In 1949 he changed his name from Stowasser (sto = 100 in Slavic languages) into Hundertwasser. Later on he called himself Friedensreich Regentag Dunkelbunt Hundertwasser.

During his whole life he was a loner and travelled around the world. On these journeys he learned different languages, e.g. English, French, Italian as well as a little bit Japanese, Russian, Czech and Arabic. He always carried his painting equipment with him so he was able to paint everywhere and every time he wanted to.

In 1952 and 1953 he had his first exhibitions in Vienna, in the following years in Paris and Milano. 1972 he painted the official poster for the XX Summer Olympics in Munich. 1982 he designed the facade of a factory and one year later was the ground breaking ceremony for the "Hundertwasser-Haus" in Vienna. In the following years he worked on a lot of architecture projects in Germany, Austria, Switzerland, California, Japan and New Zealand.

Until his death on February 19, 2000, Friedensreich Hundertwasser spent most of his time in his adopted home country New Zealand where he was buried on his plot of land, in the Garden of the Happy Dead under a tulip tree, in harmony with nature.

Philosophy of Friedensreich Hundertwasser

"There are no evils in nature. There are only evils of man.

When man thinks he has to correct nature, it is an irreparable mistake every time. A community should not consider it an honour how much spontaneous vegetation it destroys; it should rather be a point of honour for every community to protect as much of its natural landscape as possible. The brook, the river, the swamp, the riverside wetlands as they are, the way God created them, must be sacred and inviolable to us. Correcting a stream only has evil effects, which are expensive in the end: the lowering of water tables, the destruction of forests, the transformation of large areas into steppes, no regeneration of the water, which runs off too fast. The river wetlands can no longer fulfil their sponge-like function: the absorption of excess water and slow feedback in dry spells, like a good piggy bank in times of emergency. The regulated brook becomes a sewer. Fish die, and there are no fish in the brook because they cannot swim through the regulated channel. Floods, with all their devastating consequences, all the more after regulation. Because too much water runs off too quickly, converging in great quantity without any chance of being absorbed by the earth and the vegetation. Only a stream with a high waterline flowing irregularly can produce pure water, regulate the water household and conserve the fish and animal populations to the benefit of man and his agriculture. Now, almost too late, this age-old adage is being recognised and the courses of rivers and streams, which had been straightened in concrete channels, are being destroyed in order to restore the previous irregular state. What irony! So why regulate a stream if you have to deregulate it afterwards?"

Hundertwasser, May 1990

Philosophy of Rogner Bad Blumau

At Rogner Bad Blumau, as a hotel with soul, wellbeing of every individual has top priority. Below its green covered and colourful roofs, its varied shapes and flowing lines activity is combined with a relaxed and laid-back feeling.

History of Rogner Bad Blumau

Some people never have an opportunity to change their ways, others have one but fail to recognise it; others still both receive and spot it, but are unable to take advantage of it. Blumau, a small community in Eastern Styria, almost suffered the same fate or something like it. A thermal spring was discovered, no one recognised its value and a lot of money was spent to concrete it in. Some years later, the authorities began to have doubts, and a town clerk turned to Rogner. The contractor looked into the matter, submitted a preliminary proposal for use of the spring, took it to the Styrian Provincial authorities, was given the go-ahead and, at considerable expense, opened it up again. What was found was a high-quality 100°C eruptive hot spring, the quality of which exceeded all expectations. Yet again, Rogner decides to do something extraordinary. He gets in touch with the renowned artist Friedensreich Hundertwasser who agrees to design this thermal park. A model is built the size of a small dancehall and presented to the provincial government. After miles of red tape, the local authorities finally decide to take up this opportunity. Rogner Bad Blumau is built - 150,000 visitors to the building site watch on in amazement - and like so many Rogner projects, Blumau is opened on Robert Rogner's 56th birthday. International media coverage and popular demand to live in the biggest inhabitable work of art start to attract people to Blumau from near and far.

As a "hotel with soul", Rogner Bad Blumau puts individual well-being first. Beneath its green roofs is a blend of activity and relaxation. In recognition of the ecological management and environmentally friendly mode of construction, Rogner Bad Blumau was awarded the Austrian Environmental Mark of Excellence for Tourism Enterprises just a few weeks after being opened. There's something for everyone - families and singles, adults and children, people in search of relaxation and others looking for action - a wide range of individual health and wellness packages of alternative therapies, numerous sports and animation programmes, the Rogner children's adventure club and special conference services. National and international companies and groups choose Blumau as a place to present their products. Why? Because Rogner Bad Blumau is simply out of the ordinary.

20 years of Rogner Bad Blumau.

Austria's most popular thermal spa celebrates its 20th anniversary in May 2017.

When the impossible seems possible, fairytales come to life and you have a renewed sense of joie de vivre, you know you're at Rogner Bad Blumau. Where we are celebrating our 20th anniversary. The story of Rogner Bad Blumau is an eventful one. The arrival Rogner Bad Blumau transformed the small and idyllic town of Bad Blumau from one of the poorest communities in Austria into a health resort of international renown and a magnet for water and art lovers alike. The process of creating the world's largest liveable work of art involved many hurdles and milestones.

Architecture

The rolling Styrian hills form a perfect backdrop to the unique Rogner Bad Blumau, one of the world's most architecturally unusual hotels. Designed by famous Austrian artist Friedensreich Hundertwasser, the patchwork, rainbow-coloured buildings are complemented by a sleek design inside the hotel. Rogner Bad Blumau is arranged like a city with various districts. The ring-shaped inside spa is the centre, the diverse accommodation, swimming, bathing and restaurant areas branch from the centre out into the open landscape.

The houses

Stammhaus (Main house)

The main house has 46 rooms, the hotel reception and the management offices.

Ziegelhaus (Brick house)

The facade is designed with original roof-tiles from old Bad Blumau farmhouses. In this way, the history of the place has also been incorporated into the building.

There are 100 rooms in this building.

Kunsthau (Art house)

The facade of this building is based on the Vienna Kunsthau art gallery, hence its German name "Kunsthau". The art house has 100 rooms.

Steinhaus (Stone house)

This house has 47 suites ranging in size from 40 sqm. to 100 sqm. offering accommodation to approximately 150 guests. The building owes its name to the use of stones for its facade.

Waldhofhäuser (Forest yard houses)

Bedroom & living room – high quality & equipped in style with natural wood furniture by "Grüne Erde", a place to read & rest, a fresh water basin, a bath with whirlpool (connected to fresh water & thermal water), a bath with shower & toilet, hideaway for 1 to 3 people. Outdoors access to the main building: 30 metres

Augenschlitzhäuser (Slit-eye houses)

These houses with their 13 apartments do indeed have the shape of eye slits. Our guests find a range of comfortable accommodation units, divided into sleeping and living areas as well as a whirlpool tub in the bathroom.

A snail shell for the anniversary

The resort's symbol – often sought after and only dreamed of until now – is about to become a reality. Probably one of the most interesting buildings at Rogner Bad Blumau, as originally planned by builder-owner Robert Rogner and artist Friedensreich Hundertwasser, is now turning from a dream into reality. The foundation stone will be laid on Rogner Bad Blumau's 20th anniversary in 2017. Dancing windows, circular forms and lots of open space will soon work in unique symbiosis with the existing architecture.

The rooms

All accommodation in the Ziegelhaus, Kunsthaus and Stammhaus has been given a gleaming new design. New living spaces have been created reflecting the company philosophy of "living in harmony with nature". The existing high-quality solid wood furniture has been taken as the basis for the new concept and integrated into it. A new sustainable design has been developed in line with the principle of "upcycling and keeping what's good". The local Faustmann carpentry workshop in Hartberg has helped to make high-quality oak with striking rough edges an integral feature, cleverly combining natural materials with existing cupboard fittings. And oak in particular, with its unique grain, soft colours and structures, forms the basis of a new, relaxed and comfortable ambience. Indirect lighting, practical adjustable reading lamps and hand-made ceramic handles complete the look. All with outstanding attention to detail.

Fair and sustainable sleep at Rogner Bad Blumau

Sleeping well is essential for relaxation. And sleeping sustainably and fairly has become a reality at Rogner Bad Blumau. As one of the region's leading businesses, this one-of-a-kind company has been using organic fairtrade cotton for its bed linen since December 2018. The fairly traded, environmentally friendly product is also kind to the skin. Buying organic cotton supports the renovation of a school in India. A contribution towards ensuring that the farmers' children have a future worth living. The company is living out its responsibility for humankind and nature and taking a responsible approach to the use of resources.

Water – the source of life

There are three different hot springs at Rogner Bad Blumau: Melchior, Balthasar and Vulkania®. Melchior and Vulkania® are the two hot springs for the indoor and outdoor pools in the spa area, the Balthasar spring is used to heat the whole wellness area together with Vulkania® since the year 2000.

Balthasar Spring

This spring rises from a depth of 3.045 metres. The Vulkania® water is reinjected into the Balthasar spring drilling after it has delivered all its heat. Therefore the geological circulation is closed.

Melchior spring

The Melchior curative spring is the "gentle" and "mild" one. The water temperature of the mineral-rich spa water is 47.2 degrees Celsius as it flows out of the ground. It has its source at a depth of 970 metres, as a sodium hydrogen carbonate spring. Its curative power is based on a number of valuable substances.

For more information take a look at the water analysis in the chapter "Facts & Figures".

Vulkania® spring - the most mineral-rich curative water in the Styrian spa region

Since 2003 the Vulkania® spring offers another excellent supplement to the existing buildings and offers. The garden of the four elements with the Vulkania® curative lake and its approx. 40.000 sqm. area and the atrium offers a huge place for relaxing. The two Vulkania® lakes get constantly fresh water from the Vulkania® spring so the water is free from chemical additives. Underwater music creates a pleasant atmosphere. One can swim and recover in the millennium old, high mineralised Vulkania® water. The water feels like silk on your skin. It strengthens the skin and the metabolism, it supports the blood circulation and has curative effects on the whole body.

The Vulkania® curative spring is a deep ground water with a unique composition. It has its source at a depth of 2,843 metres. The water outflow temperature is approx. 110 degrees Celsius. The mineral content of this naturally concentrated brine spring exceeds many times over the level required for curative effects.

Over 1 million years ago, an inland sea came into being in a volcanic landscape. Over the millennia, it was hermetically sealed off from outside influences through tectonic movements and overlapping of the fissures of the volcanoes. Through deep thermal drilling, this unique primeval sea was discovered. Now this Vulkania® curative water, unadulterated by any environmental influences, can be used for regeneration and recovery at Rogner Bad Blumau.

Additional advantage of the Vulkania® spring

The Vulkania® spring is not only used for the pools, with its high temperature and huge amount of CO<sub>2</sub> the spring has also other advantages.

The natural CO<sub>2</sub>

In the past thousand years the water was also enriched with natural CO<sub>2</sub>. The water can be used for the pools without chlorine because of this natural carbonic acid.

The „natural“ power

With a temperature of 110°C the Vulkania® water generates electricity and it heats the whole hotel and spa facilities – therefore 1,300 tons of fuel oil and 3,900 tons CO<sub>2</sub> output are reduced every year.

Theme trails at Rogner Bad Blumau

The Geomantic path

– path of perception and healing

The thermal springs of Blumau are located on highly sensitive ground, where a number of power points, centres of vital energy and natural intelligence can be found. It was Mrs. Melitta Rogner who was the first person to be struck by the feeling that there was something special about the place. Upon this discovery, the artist and natural healer Marko Pogacnik did some research on site and identified its special value for the ethereal world. During construction, special care was taken to make sure that these precious places were not destroyed. As a result, the geomantic path was created, along which guests can get to know and feel the power points.

The Celtic Tree Circle

Every guest at Rogner Bad Blumau has the chance to find their personal birthday tree and to get to know their own character traits in the thermal park. From identifying these traits and from the magical qualities of the trees, every human being can gain power and support to master all situations in life. For thousands of years there has been a deep relation between mankind and the tree, the most powerful plant on earth. For mankind, it was always been an ancient symbol in various shapes. Especially for the Celts, our ancestors, trees played a central role in their lives that was deeply linked to nature. During the rhythm of the seasons, in the course of many years, they assigned (allocated) certain times and occasions to them. The Celtic circle of trees came into existence.

Rogner Arche Noah rare trees garden

Together with Arche Noah society, Rogner Bad Blumau has established a garden with up to 200 rare species of trees. Lined with scented roses, shrubs and flowers, this is a place where you can get close to nature.
